

IN THE WOMAN'S WORLD

COURTESIES DUE WOMEN

AND THEIR ORIGIN

So many of the little courtesies that are demanded by the woman of today whether or not she is a member of the smart set are found lacking in many of the men she meets. A number of the old customs such as a gentleman picking up any parcel that the lady may drop, originated in the days of long ago when the women wore such tight laced dresses that stooping was almost an impossibility. Before that time it seems that the women did not stoop because the armor armor was so heavy and stiff they were unable to bend. The custom of shaking hands was a sign of peace and often meant "Peace, peace, when there is no peace." It seems that if men shook hands with their right hands they were unable to fight or draw a sword.

In the olden times it was a custom among the people of the East to kiss the feet and garments of those with whom they came in contact. The Romans and other westerners scorned this custom and so embraced and kissed upon meeting, and parting. This practice continued for some time and was adopted in the courts of the European countries until the 16th century when both men and women wore ruffs that protruded at least a foot. Here kissing was impossible and it became the rule to throw a kiss with the hand. Here that pretty little custom that still exists at large dinner parties it is etiquette for the gentleman to escort the lady to the dining room. This originated in the days of knights and ladies. It was customary for the hostess to precede her guests to the dining room and the company followed, ladies first according to rank. Ladies and gentlemen both walked single file. The practice was the cause of many a discussion as to which sex the gentleman ranked the highest. To remedy the trouble it became customary for the gentleman to take the lady to dinner. Many of these little courtesies did not denote good nature, but on the contrary were brought into practice to prevent strife. Still they have become almost a part of the life of nations and are now demanded by the men as well as the women.

No girl who knows anything whatever about etiquette is willing to walk along the street with a man who neglects to take the outside of the sidewalk. Perhaps the neglect of this little practice does not denote discourtesy, but when a man does walk on the outside he shows his readiness to protect the woman. Another little practice where many of the young men in Honolulu are decidedly negligent is the rising to make room for the lady who is forced to pass before him in the street car. When asked to give a reason for this one gentleman answered "O, well, if we like a girl we will move for her but what's the use of doing it for everybody?" He was told that it was not a case of "what's the use" but a mere matter of form and that little discourtesies like that one, reflect not on the young man alone but on his mother's or whoever has helped to "bring him up."

Young women who come here from other cities say that the white men of Honolulu, or rather, the young men from seventeen to twenty-two or three, who have been brought up in Honolulu are decidedly careless about these little courtesies. They also say that the Hawaiians are courteous, gentle and gentlemanly in their conduct. Many complaints are made against the manners of the Honolulu boys but the only excuse that is ever made for them is that the climate makes them lazy. Rather a poor excuse don't you think?

Men and women who are adverse to women entering the working world say that when a woman competes with man in business she must not expect to keep his respect the same as she held it previously. This should not be the case, on the contrary, he should respect her more because she is willing to take a part in the real activities of the world. Great surprise has been expressed by those who know certain business men in this city that they can be so nice to the women whom they meet in society when courtesy in their business houses is almost unheard of. Employees sometimes say that when a man has had no practice in being nice during the day, they marvel that he knows how to act, and what to say, when he enters the social world. A great many men are negligent about giving their seats in the street car to women. When a woman neglects her shopping until five o'clock she should not expect to take the seat of a working man, but during the day, particularly a holiday or Sunday, a street car may be filled, and many men sitting down while women are doing their best to keep from falling with every lurch of the car. In most of the electric cars in other cities there are straps for the passengers, but here one must learn to balance oneself as well as a conductor in order to keep up. It is easy for a man to do this, but it is not so for a woman.

LESS BOWEL TROUBLE IN HONOLULU

Honolulu people have found out that A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adlerka, the German aperient, relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach INSTANTLY. This simple mixture antisepticizes the digestive organs and draws off the impurities and it is surprising how QUICKLY it helps. The Hoffman Drug Co.

AT THE HAWAII

It is hard to do justice to a first-class program of entertainment by simply writing the facts. Especially is this so of the cozy, cool and comfortable Hawaii. The class of pictures being submitted to the public are the best that can be procured. Last night the pictures were nice and clear and very much enjoyed by a packed house. The feature of the evening's performance was "Molly Pitcher," a thrilling war story of 1776 and shows how Molly rescues her lover from the clutches of the enemy and leads them into a trap where they are captured. "His Brother's Double" brought forth considerable applause on the positions the two brothers played, how the black sheep stole money from his father and the other brother was blamed, but who after several very funny incidents straightened things out to his own satisfaction.

The balance of the program was a thrilling "Episode of Early Mormon Days," a western picture showing how the Mormons killed off all new settlers who attempted to locate in their territory. The salt industry from marsh to market was rather interesting, as also was a short act in magic entitled "The Magic Valley." The last of the program was "The Mysterious Stranger," a very fine drama. The same program will be played tonight and should fill the house.

WILL STUDY RELIGIONS

The study of Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Mahomedanism and Christianity, the five remaining religions of the world, will be taken up during the Lenten season by the members of the different churches and societies of the city. At the meetings, Dr. Edmund Macdonald, who has David Cary Peters. The classes will be formed of those interested in this subject from all the different churches and will be a non-sectarian meeting.

In several cities on the mainland the study of religions other than their own has been taken up by the members of different churches, and this study has also taken a deep root in church circles in Honolulu.

Two coasting steamers are listed for dispatch tomorrow, the Claudine for regular ports of call on Maui and Hawaii and the Mauna Loa for Kona and Kauai. The Mauna Loa is expected to sail at noon with a fair sized list of cabin and deck passengers.

HALLOWEEN RECIPES

CALDRON PUNCH.—The juice of one dozen oranges, six lemons, one pineapple, one-half cupful of sugar dissolved in a cupful of boiling water and allowed to cool, a cup of strong tea. Mix and set away to ripen. When ready to use turn over a block of ice in the punch bowl, add four bottles of ginger ale and enough carbonated water to make the desired quantity. A few candied cherries may be put on top if desired.

Gnome Salad.—To a chicken and celery salad add a half cupful of pineapple juice and the juice of one large onion. Mix well, then add a heavy mayonnaise. Garnish with olives stuffed with almonds and serve on lettuce.

Witch Cake.—Bake an ordinary apple cake, to which may be added finely chopped raisins and citron, and place a ring, thimble and dime in the batter. When baked cover with plain white icing and decorate the top with a witch in red and black costume.

Costume Cake.—Cream. Make a golden pineapple cake, mold in melon rind, represent eyes, mouth, etc. Before each slice is a treat for the children.

THE NEW TAILORED BLOUSE.—This new blouse has a V-neck in the back and is absolutely without back or fold in front. Though for very thin figures there is a style with a single pleat laid in at the shoulders which is becoming, yet does not make the blouse heavy. The sleeve is put in just like a man's shirt sleeve with a wide double seam attached twice around. The armholes are large. The box plait in front is narrow and attached on each side. The cuffs are soft and turn back upon themselves with rounded corners on the turn-back portion. The collar is made of self material and is a turnover, unfastened. A four-in-hand tie is worn with it, and a good safety pin holds the blouse to the collar together very securely. The more formal wear a blouse with a wide with a narrow turn-back of white plush is chosen.

This blouse may be purchased in the shops carried out in cash alike, both plain white and striped. Especially smart are the white silks striped with hair lines of black, either singly or in clusters of four or five.

A man's cotton turtorial madras is the favorite. A very good blouse seen recently is of white with a wide edge of self blue. It would look well with dark self links and a blue four-hand tie to match the blue of the stripe.

FASHION WRINKLE.—MARCELINCK blue? The color of the "Bluebird," of course, and a beautiful new shade it is. A very pretty gown of blue and white striped crepe, with borders and buttons of plain blue satin in the soft, pure blue of the "happiness" birds wings, is very smart. The beautiful allegorical play has furnished a name for one of the season's most charming hues.

CALLING COSTUME OF BRAIDED VELVET

IN THE NEW DAHLED.

BRAID is immensely fashionable this season, and on one velvet suit it is particularly good. The trimmings motif. The suit illustrated is of the new dahlia red shade, from color that is to be such a hit. Black patent leather shoes and a chic velvet black hat, accented this exceedingly modish suit.

RIBBON BRACELET

THE woman who suffers annoyances of having her long and constantly slipping down to her feet can find relief in a pair of ribbon bracelets, which will look best when matched the gloves in color. These accessories can be made at home materials needed being one and three-quarters of soft ribbon cut two inches wide and half a yard narrow elastic.

Divide the ribbon into equal parts and the elastic into parts. To make a single bracelet the edges of one piece of ribbon together and fold it so that the seams at the center of the underside slip on the elastic, pull up the ribbon and join elastic and ribbon ends.

Out of one-half of another ribbon piece make a tiny net some roses to hide the joining. A little bracelet slips up the arm catches the glove just above the elbow.
